BENJAMIN DISRAELI

An Unconventional Biography

By WILFRID MEYNELL

A CHARMINGLY personal book made up of Disraeli's talk and Disraeli's letters, around which is written the romantic story of his life. The author has sought to offer a story of Lord Beaconsfield as a man of temperament, and to record his moods, motives, and aims in social rather than in public affairs. The volume contains two photogravure and forty other full-page plates, the most interesting series of authentic pictures illustrating the life of the great statesman and man of letters ever brought together.

NEW HARPER PUBLICATIONS

A KEYSTONE OF EMPIRE

By the author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress," "A Doffed Coronet," etc.

This is the story of the life of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, told by the biographer of his consort, the late Empress Elizabeth, in The Martyrdom of an Empress. It constitutes a companion volume to the latter, completing it, in fact, and presents the doyen of the Old World monarchs in a singularly fascinating light, describing his many bitter trials, his relations with his wonderfully clever and imperious mother, with his kindly old father, as well as with the other members of his family. The historical portions of his career have served as a sort of framework for the portrayal of the private life of the Emperor, with interesting details never before printed.

THE RUSSIAN ADVANCE

By ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE

Senator Beveridge spent some months recently in Russia, Manchuria, and Korea, studying the Russia-Japan controversy over Korea, and making a complete investigation of Russian conditions as compared with those in the United States. This book contains the result of his important and valuable work there, and prophesies early war over Korea between Japan and Russia.

THE STANDARD of PRONUNCIATION IN ENGLISH

By T. R. LOUNSBURY, LL.D., L.H.D.

Author of "Studies in Chaucer," and Professor of English at Yale University.

In this volume for the first time is given the history of the pronouncing dictionary. Prof. Lounsbury gives arguments and many examples which show that there never has been nor can be a fixed standard of pronunciation for the English language.

MONOLOGUES

By MAY ISABEL FISK

Many of these clever monologues have been popular in the pages of Harper's Magazine. They treat for the most part, with good-natured satire, of the foibles and funny ideas of immature women—young housekeepers who make ludicrous mistakes at the butcher's, betrothed people who attempt to engage the apartment they want and have to pretend to the landlord that they are already married, and women who at concerts and matinées, relate their entire domestic history, to the silent rage of their neighbors. These are some of the types who present themselves most amusingly in the Monologues.

SYMBOL- PSYCHOLOGY

By Rev. ADOLPH ROEDER

A remarkable study of the meaning of myth and folk-lore—the symbols by which man has been enlightened and instructed through all ages. The author's attitude towards life and revealed religion is sober and fair-minded. His work is most valuable.

NOTES IN SEASON.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. publish to-day a handsome volume entitled "Famous Actors and Actresses and Their Homes," by Gustav Kobbé, who in an interesting manner describes the domestic and intimate lives of some of America's leading stage favorites, with over fifty illustrations; "The Life Radiant," by Lilian Whiting, which aims to portray a practical ideal for daily living; "Daniel Webster for Young Americans," a selection of the great statesman's best speeches, with introduction and notes by Professor Charles F. Richardson; also, the romances of Alexandre Dumas, (in 48 volumes,) in their new Hand Library Sets of Standard Novelists.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish at once a new volume of the International Theological Library, entitled "Old Testament History," by Henry Preserved Smith, D.D., Professor of Biblical History and Interpretation, Amherst College. This book gives a history of Old Testament times, by a narrative based upon those biblical books which are historical in form. The nature of these books is carefully considered, their data are used according to historical methods and the conclusions of recent criticism are set forth. The other books of the Old Testament with the more important of the Apocrypha are given their proper place so far as they throw light on the development of the Old Testament people.

HARPER & BROTHERS are publishing "A Keystone of Empire," the story of the life of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, told by the author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress," illustrated from private drawings and photographs; "The Russian Advance," by Senator Albert J. Beveridge, who spent some months recently in the East studying the Russo-Japanese controversy over Korea, etc.; "Monologues," good-natured satire dealing with the foibles and mistakes of immature men and women in various conditions of life, by May Isabel Fisk; "Symbol-Psychology," by the Rev. Adolph Roeder, a study of the meaning of myth and folk lore; also "The Standard of Pronunciation in English," by Dr. T. R. Lounsbury of Yale.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just brought out the Puritan edition of "Pilgrim's Progress." The edition contains the text of "The Pilgrim's Progress" as it stood when Bunyan's death removed all possibility of further authoritative revision. The proofs were carefully compared with copies of the first, second, third and eleventh editions of Part I, in the Library of the British Museum. The eleventh, which is one of the rarest in the whole series of early editions, appeared in the year when Bunyan died. The second part has been carefully collated with the second edition, published in 1686. This was the last edition of that part issued in Bunyan's lifetime—since the third edition was published in 1690—and doubtless contains his own latest corrections. The volume is illustrated by Harold Copping, who has devoted much time and care to the work. Discarding allegorical drawing as far as possible he has used the every-day costumes of Bunyan's time to interpret the characters of the book. The result has been that he has produced a series of thirty-one illustrations characterized by a deep insight into the spirit of Bunyan's masterpiece. They will publish shortly a life of Christ entitled "The Story of the Nazarene," by Professor Noah K. Davis, of the University of Virginia. The volume is the outgrowth of a series of lectures delivered during the past twenty-five years on Sunday afternoons.

Professor Carpenter presents the results of a fresh study of Whittier's life and work, in the light of recently accessible sources of information. He is a sympathetic biographer, for he comes himself of old New England stock and his studies have had largely to do with our native literature. Written on the lines made familiar by the earlier books of the American Men of Letters Series, to which it belongs, this life gives a succinct account of Whittier's activities as a politician, poet, and reformer.

A timely novel which deals with machine politics and other social and political problems which affect the life of all our great American cities. The hero whose fictitious name is Larry O'Brien, is a self made man, and a party boss whose action strongly resembles a well known New York politician. In the story he is brought into contest with characters (evidently real) who advocate Fusion and Reform. It is needless to say that with big odds against him, the machine man triumphs. There is a love affair as a side issue.

In this fresh interpretation of our national history, Miss Sample shows the tremendous part that geography has played in emigration, war, travel, and commerce. The position of mountains and mountain passes, the size and direction of rivers, the course of trails are seen to have been powerful factors in the life of the nation. The author shows that they have determined the course of emigration, the plan of campaigns in war, the distribution of settlements, and laid down in advance the lines of our railroads. Chapters on inland waters will throw light on the project of deepening the Erie Canal, and others of lively and general interest are those on the Louisiana Purchase and the subject of irrigation. Miss Sample is an associate editor of "The Journal of Geography" and an accepted authority in her field, being a favorite pupil of the great German geographer, Dr. Ratzel.

Early American poetry: a compilation of the titles of volumes of verse and broadsides, written by writers born or residing in North America, and issued during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. N. Y., published by the compiler, [Oscar Wegelin,] 1903. c. 2-86 p. O. cl., *$3 net.

The early poetry of America should be divided into three distinct classes, the religious, the patriotic, the humorous. To the first class belong all the odes and elegies written in a wonderfully verbose style, with remarkably long and heartrending titles. The patriotic is the most interesting and from a historical standpoint the most valuable. The most interesting examples in this class are the pamphlets and broadsides written during the Revolutionary War. In the third class are found the works of some of the most famous of our early American writers. The list is believed to be as perfect a gathering of titles of books and pamphlets as can be made at the present time.—The Compiler, Oscar Wegelin.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

NOVEMBER 7, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE STRENGTH OF BOOK TRADE REFORM.

Two facts about the book trade reform, which for the first time in a generation has succeeded in establishing equal and equitable prices for books, are most gratifying—first, that there have been so few "breaks" by retail dealers, and, second, that when such difficulties have occurred the publishing trade, and the great body of the retail trade, have been staunch and patient in firmly coping with the emergency. As a matter of fact, the reform has been singularly successful. Probably no like attempt has been carried through with so few difficulties, for almost always there is a tendency here and there to give way on general principles, for the reason, or on the excuse of, exceptions to the general good faith. There have been, in fact, since the reform was fairly under way, but two "breaks" worth mentioning; the one, the Macy case now in process of adjudication in court with every prospect of a finally successful issue; the other, that which has occurred during the past fortnight, in which the cut last week of one department store in New York, for advertising purposes, to 79 cents on popular fiction, has been followed this week by a cut from another department store in Brooklyn to 69 cents, and by a competing department store, also in Brooklyn, to 59 cents. All these houses had been, definitely or tacitly, buying or selling under the general scheme; but the first "break" was made an excuse for the others. It is understood that the best general price for quantities on these lines has been 81 cents, so that a loss of from 2 to 22 cents was made by these houses; aside from the cost of handling the books, including costly advertising, for the sake of cut-throat competition. Only in exceptional cases of 1000 lots have the books on which the "breaks" were made been sold at wholesale at 79 cents. It is self-evident that this is not a business basis for handling books.

At the meeting of the American Publishers' Association this week, as reported in another column, definite action was unanimously taken—unanimous in the real sense, and in the best spirit—to maintain prices, and it was announced that some of the offending parties had already agreed to return to the general scheme. We cannot make a definite report as regards Abraham & Straus, of Brooklyn, which is associated with the R. H. Macy Company, by partners common to both firms, and it is possible that this house may attempt to continue on the Macy line of policy.

The retail book trade of New York has taken similar firm and affirmative action, and every bookseller throughout the country should not only hold up the hands of the New York trade, but rejoice that the general principles of the reform have been so fully vindicated, and that, in proportion, there have been so few "breaks."

New light has been thrown on the Macy case by the federal decision reported last week from Illinois, which not only has the authority of the federal courts dealing with a question of national law, and therefore binding on all state courts, but is the strongest position yet taken judicially, which fully confirms the most extreme position of counsel for the Publishers' Association. It is probable, in fact, that under this decision proceedings will be directly taken in the federal courts to enjoin the underselling parties.

It is especially gratifying that the rumors of the withdrawal of this and that important publishing house, or jobber, or retailer, have been proven false. In the case of a Western State where legislation has become very drastic, it has been thought advisable for two members to withdraw from the Association; but it is understood that they will still act in harmony with the reform plan. Some evasions, either purposed or accidental, have been reported or rumored, but the rumors seem to refer to exceptions, which though perhaps unwise, have some semblance of excuse. Any house, particularly any important house, which should at this juncture "go back" upon the reform, would put itself in the most unfortunate position before the general trade which could possibly be imagined, for it might be difficult, in such emergency, to hold others in the trade to the general plan; and such a course would centre upon the offenders the responsibility for causing the collapse of the one plan which in all the discussions since 1876 has proved the only practical method of making the book trade a paying industry, while being just and fair to the patrons of that industry. We are, therefore, glad to congratulate the trade that the reports of unfriendly withdrawals have, so far as we know or can learn, no real basis.

The devices to which undersellers have been put to obtain a supply of books have been many and devious; for instance, an order was placed with a New York house for a large line of popular books to be expressed to a well-known Western house. When the goods were boxed, orders were given to forward the goods through a New York house—which proved to be but a short cut to the undersellers. It was certainly annoying to the dealer who thought he had a bona fide order for several thousand dollars of goods to find that he was being made the tool for the underseller. Of course, a serious loss of profit which at once loomed in his sight was but a seeming one, for the goods were definitely intended to cut prices under his eyes and at a disadvantage to him far beyond the profit he could have made. We have heard of several instances among publishers, where there was irritating annoyance at the evident necessity of refusing orders which seemed to promise good profits; but here again the profit was but "fools' gold," for the books were to be used not to increase trade, but as missiles to knock away the underpinnings of the substantial edifice of the new reform.

It is more and more evident, from the trend of judicial decision, that the battle will be fought out chiefly on copyright books. The Illinois decision in the patent case, which we reprint in this issue, lays down the law equally for copyright articles, and indicates that the proprietor of a monopoly article protected by United States patent or copyright law, has absolute right to control the prices indirectly through the distributing agency as well as in his own sales. It is probable, therefore, that copyright protection will be the bulwark of reform. But retail dealers, as the department stores in question, working against the general interest of the book trade, will scarcely be entitled to discounts, no matter how temptingly large their orders seem, on non-copyright books, which would give them a margin of profit as a basis for cutting prices. On the lines of books which are standard articles of manufacture, this rule will not hold, and here, doubtless, is the field where the department stores can and will freely exercise their distinctive methods. Within the field of copyright books, and other new publications, most of the department stores have cheerfully and honestly accepted the reform plan, and we can only repeat our congratulations to the trade, publishers and retailers alike, that such progress has been made since the beginning of reform with so few exceptions in the way of "breaks," as to assure its triumph, if the present standards of loyalty and of good faith upon the part of the trade, in the widest sense, hold as they do to-day.

It has been the frequent complaint of publishers that special interests so preyed upon them for free copies or for advertising, as to make serious inroads upon the margin of profit, and lead to the substantial increase in the general price of books. The most flagrant offence has developed, we regret to say, from the library scheme in the State of South Dakota. Its department of public instruction, under date of November 1, has sent to book publishers a circular letter, inviting them to send free copies of books suitable for county libraries, with the understanding that non-accepted books shall be returned, and that accepted books shall be catalogued in a supply list, and each publisher assessed a portion of the cost of making the catalogue, in proportion to the number of books by which he is represented. We print this circular letter elsewhere—with this word of protest, in the hope that it will be a hint to publishers to resent such "whitemail" plans which ought to be rebuked by the library interest.

PROPRIETOR'S CONTROL OF PRICE ON PATENTED ARTICLES.

WE give below the decision in the appeal from the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Illinois, Northern Division re the Victor Talking Machine Company, the United States Gramophone Company and the Berliner Gramophone Company, appellants, versus The Fair, a corporation, appellee, before Jenkins, Grosscup and Baker, Circuit Judges:

Appellants' bill alleges that they own all legal and equitable rights under letters patent no. 534543, issued February 19, 1895, on the application of Emile Berliner, and that appellee without license sold and after notice to desist threatens to continue to sell devices that embody the invention described and claimed in the patent. After other averments usual in the ordinary bill for infringement, appears a prayer for decree for a preliminary and a perpetual injunction and an accounting of profits and damages. In the body of the bill, however, it is disclosed that appellants made the gramophones in question; affixed to each a notice in these words: "Notice. This machine, which is registered on our books No.—, is licensed by us for sale and use only when sold to the public at a price not less than $—. No license is granted to use this machine when sold at a less price. Any sale or use of this machine when sold in violation of 'his condition will be considered as an infringement of our United States patents under which this machine and records used in connection therewith are constructed, and all parties so selling or using this machine contrary to the terms of this license will be treated as infringers of said patents, and will render themselves liable to suit and damages. This license is good only so long as this label and the above noted registered number remain upon the machine; and erasures, or removal of this label, will be construed as a violation of the license. A purchase is an acceptance of these conditions. All rights revert to the undersigned in the event of any violation. Victor Talking Machine Co."; filled in the blanks on each notice with the appropriate number and the price, $25; and sold them to a jobber subject to all the restrictions set forth in the notice, which restrictions the jobber accepted and agreed to at the time of the purchase. It is also averred that appellee, proprietor of a department store in Chicago, having at the time full knowledge of the restrictions under which the jobber took the machines, purchased and acquired possession of them, with the labels conspicuously attached thereto, from the jobber; advertised them for sale at $18 each; and sold some and insisted upon its right to sell the others at the cut price.

Appellee demurred and for causes assigned that the bill showed (1) that appellee had the right to sell the machines at any price it chose, and (2) that appellants' cause of action, if any, arose through the violation of a contract and not through the infringement of a patent. The court sustained the demurrer, and upon appellants' refusal to plead further the decree was rendered from which this appeal is taken.

Baker, Circuit Judge, delivered the opinion of the court.

I. Concerning jurisdiction: When a contract is made respecting a right under a patent and the parties get into litigation, confusion has sometimes arisen over the question whether the cause of action originates in the contract or in the patent laws. The test is this: If the plaintiff is seeking a judgment for debt or damages, or a decree for cancellation or specific performance, on account of the defendant's breach of his covenants, the cause of action arises out of the contract; and, though the determination of the issue of breach or no breach may involve the interpretation of the patent and of the prior art, the insistence of the defendant that his device, according to the true construction of the patent and of the prior art, is not within the patent right granted him in the contract, can not change the nature of the action. Standard Sewing Machine Co. v. Leslie, 118 Fed. 557, — C. C. A. —. On the other hand, if the plaintiff is seeking a judgment for damages, or a decree for an injunction and an accounting, on account of the defendant's unauthorized use of the patent right in making or using or selling the device without license, the cause of action arises out of the patent laws; and, though the determination of the issue of infringement or no infringement may involve the interpretation of the contract, the insistence of the defendant that his act was within his rights under the contract if properly construed, can not change the nature of the action. We think the rule as stated is clearly deducible from the authorities. Mr. Chief Justice Taney's statement of the nature of the bill in Wilson v. Sanford, 10 How. 99, points out the class to which that action belongs: "The object of the bill is to have this contract set aside and declared to be forfeited; and the prayer is 'that the appellant's re-investiture of title to the license granted to the appellees, by reason of the forfeiture of the contract, may be sanctioned by the court,' and for an injunction. But the injunction he asks for is to be the consequence of the decree of the court sanctioning the forfeiture. He alleges no ground for an injunction unless the contract is set aside." If, however, the patentee had been suing, not to have the contract annulled, but to restrain the defendants from using a part of his monopoly that had never been granted them, the language of Mr. Chief Justice Waite in Littlefield v. Perry, 21 Wall. 205, 222, would characterize the class: "An action which raises a question of infringement is an action arising 'under the law,' and one who has the right to sue for infringement may sue in the Circuit Court. Such a suit may involve the construction of the contract as well as the patent, but that will not oust the court of its jurisdiction." And in this connection, see further: Excelsior Wooden Pipe Co. v. Pacific Bridge Co., 185 U. S. 282; Atherton Machine Co. v. Atwood-Morrison Co., 102 Fed. 949; Ball and Socket Fastener Co. v. Ball Glove Fastening Co., 58 Fed. 818; Seibert Cylinder Oil Cup Co. v. Manning, 32 Fed. 625.

In the present case, it is hardly conceivable that the question of jurisdiction would have been broached, if appellants had confined themselves to drafting and filing a straight bill for infringement. But again, the defense, whether put in by the defendant or by the plaintiff for him, can not change the nature of the action.

II. The merits: Without applying to the Patent Office, one may make and use and sell the device that embodies his invention. That is his natural right. All that the Government can and does grant him is the right to exclude others from practicing his invention without his consent. Within his domain, the patentee is czar. The people must take the invention on the terms he dictates or let it alone for seventeen years. This is a necessity from the nature of the grant. Cries of restraint of trade and impairment of the freedom of sales are unavailing, because for the promotion of the useful arts the constitution and statutes authorize this very monopoly.

By its terms, the grant covers three separate or separable fields. The patentee may agree with one that he will not exclude him from making, with another from using, and with yet another from selling devices that exemplify the principles of his invention. Within the field of making, it has never been doubted, so far as we are aware, that he may subdivide as he pleases and offer to sell or lease in the most fanciful parcels on the harshest terms; that whether purchasers and tenants come or not is purely his own concern; and that, if purchasers or tenants do come, the courts will enforce the terms of the sale or lease. And how could it be otherwise? Owning the whole, he owns every part. The field being his property, and there being no law for seizing it and adjudging his damages, he can not be compelled to part with his own except on inducements to his liking. The same conditions must prevail within the field of use, for how can it be distinguished? And the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit, in a case we thoroughly approve (Heaton-Peninsular Button-Fastener Co. v. Eureka Specialty Co., 77 Fed. 288, — C. C. A. —), has ruled that a patentee may farm out such a part of the field of use as he pleases and retain the balance, and that whoever without permission enters the reserved portion is an infringer. This case has been followed and approved by the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in Cortelyou v. Lowe, 111 Fed. 1005. The field of sale is as much within the monopoly as the others; and so it has been decided. Bement v. National Harrow Co., 186 U. S. 70. And in Edison Phonograph Co. v. Kaufman, 105 Fed. 960, and Edison Phonograph Co. v. Pike, 116 Fed. 863, the holdings were that a patentee may reserve to himself as an ungranted part of his monopoly of sale the right to fix and control the prices at which jobbers and dealers may sell the patented article to the public, and that whoever without permission enters the reserved portion is an infringer.

In the present case, the vice of counsel's argument lies in the assumption that the jobber by paying his money to appellants acquired such an unrestricted title to the machines in question that appellee could take them and fix its own prices in offering them for sale to the public. The bill very clearly shows that appellants said to the jobber, "We are unwilling to part with the whole of our monopoly. There are no terms on which we will give you an unrestricted right to deal in our machines. However, if you choose to pay our price for a limited right, we will place our machines in your hands to be sold by you or by dealers under you to the public at not less than $25 each"; and that the jobber explicitly accepted this offer. It is axiomatic in all departments of the law that unless the quality of innocence intervenes the title of the purchaser is no better than his seller's. The bill directly charges appellee, a dealer, with prior knowledge of the terms on which the jobber came into possession of the machines. Whether or not appellee covenanted to be bound by the terms is not alleged; and whether or not an implied promise arose from appellee's purchase is immaterial in this case, for the suit is not upon a promise to keep out of the reserved portion of the monopoly, but is for the trespass in entering without permission.

It is perhaps needless to observe that what the rights of the public who purchase at $25 may be with respect to reselling, is a question not involved.

The decree is reversed, with the direction to overrule the demurrer to the bill.

A COERCIVE CATALOGING PLAN.

THE following circular letter, issued by the Department of Public Instruction of South Dakota, at Pierre, dated November 1, 1903, has been addressed to publishers:

"In 1901 the South Dakota legislature passed a law providing for the establishment of school district libraries. That law reads in part as follows:

"The county treasurer shall withhold from the apportionment of July, 1901, received from the interest and income fund or other income for the schools of his county, an amount equal to ten cents per capita for each person of school age residing therein, and annually thereafter, an amount equal to ten cents per capita for each person of school age, which money shall constitute a library fund and shall be used in the purchase of library books. The county superintendent, county auditor, and principals of schools in villages employing more than one teacher, shall constitute the county library board. Annually, between the first day of July and the first day of September, the county library board shall meet at the call of the county superintendent, who shall be chairman of said board, and expend the money provided for in the purchase of books selected from the list prepared by the superintendent of public instruction.

"Under the provisions of the law this department has issued an initial library list and two supplements. At the present time we purpose discarding the old lists and issuing in their stead one that shall more fully meet our growing needs. The proposed volume will cost from $500 to $800, and the department appropriation will not permit such an expenditure. However, should book publishers—the ones who are directly benefited by the list—be willing to pay for its publication, we shall gladly prepare a catalogue fashioned somewhat after that issued by the Wisconsin department. We propose that publishers shall submit for examination such books as they would place in the new catalogue; all books approved by this department to be numbered so as to conform to the catalogue numbers and to be placed upon our library shelves. Rejected books will be returned to publishers. We desire to apportion the expense of printing catalogue among book houses according to the number of their publications listed, payments to be made direct to the printer. It is our hope that all who publish desirable library books shall be represented in the forthcoming list, and we respectfully solicit your co-operation.

"G. W. NASH, Superintendent."

THE AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION UPHOLDS ITS PLAN.

THE representatives of nearly forty of the members of the American Publishers' Association met at the Aldine Association on the afternoon of November 4. Mr. Charles Scribner, president of the Association, acted as chairman, and Mr. Simon Brentano as secretary pro tem. The immediate object of the meeting was to consider the break in prices made by the Simpson-Crawford Company in New York and by Abraham & Straus and Loeser & Co. in Brooklyn. Concerning the Simpson-Crawford Company, it was reported that the house had agreed not to make further offers to undersell. Loeser & Co. agreed to maintain prices if pressure could be brought to bear upon Abraham & Straus to pursue a similar course. The latter firm, however, declared their intention to cut the prices on all books which they might obtain after they had disposed of the stock bought under agreement to maintain prices; the Association therefore decided to cut off their supplies.

The members of the Association present at this meeting, after earnestly deliberating the situation from every point of view, without a dissenting vote, expressed their satisfaction with the working of the reform movement in passing the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Board of Managers be directed to maintain the plan of the American Publishers' Association, and take all necessary steps to that end.

Resolved, That a committee of seven, (to be selected by the president,) be appointed from the membership of the American Publishers' Association to act in conference with the Board of Managers in carrying out the foregoing resolution.

Owing to recent legislation in Illinois which, under penalty, restrains the members of a business corporation in that State from associating with any organization for the purpose of maintaining or restricting prices of merchandise, A. C. McClurg & Co. and the Fleming H. Revell Company felt themselves obliged to withdraw from the Association, though expressing themselves in perfect sympathy with its object and assuring the Association of their co-operation so far as it might be possible for them to co-operate.

It was also learned at this meeting that one of the members of the Association to test the recent decision in the federal courts in relation to patented articles is preparing to bring suit against one of the undersellers to restrain them from infringing their rights in copyright books.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE next "Smoker" of the Booksellers' League will be held at the Aldine Association on the evening of November 11. The speaker of the evening will be Mr. William J. Long, the naturalist, who will tell of some of the things he knows about animals. Members who desire to have places reserved for them at the table must notify Charles E. Butler, at Brentano's, no later than the 9th inst.

At the meeting of the Board of Managers, held on the 5th inst., the treasurer of the League, James B. Brigham, owing to pressure of work, resigned his position. In acting upon Mr. Brigham's request to be relieved the Board passed resolutions acknowledging the faithful and valuable services of their outgoing treasurer, who served the League since its organization. A copy of the resolutions are to be transmitted, accompanied by a substantial token from its funds of the League's regard. W. H. Parker, of E. P. Dutton & Co., was elected to fill the unexpired term of the treasurer.

It was decided to give the annual dinner of the League on the second Wednesday in February next.

OBITUARY NOTES.

PROFESSOR THEODOR MOMMSEN, the historian, died at Berlin, November 1, aged eighty-six. Professor MommSEN was born at Garding in Schleswig, November 30, 1817, and was graduated from the University of Kiel. In 1843 he published his "De Collegiis et Sodalitibus Romanorum," the first of a long series of works. Taking part in the revolutionary movement during 1848-1849, he was dismissed from the University of Leipzig. In 1850 he was called to a chair in the legal faculty at Zurich, which he resigned to take a similar position in Breslau. In 1858 he became professor of Roman law at the University of Berlin, a position he held until his death. While at Zurich he published the first volume of his "History of Rome," the most popular of his historic work. He was for some years a member of the House of Representatives, representing the National-Liberal party, and was a bitter opponent of Bismarck, whose tariff policy he denounced as a pure swindle. He was arrested for this utterance and tried for slander, but was acquitted at Berlin, and later, at the High Court of Appeals at Leipzig. A complete list of MommSEN's writings made fifteen years ago took up sixty closely-printed pages, and he kept up writing after that. Among all his writings his monumental "Corpus Inscriptionum Latinarum" is regarded by scholars as his best work.

A. WESSELS COMPANY will publish shortly a history of Napoleon Bonaparte, written for boys, by William C. Sprague, which will be adequately illustrated; also "Famous Battles of the Nineteenth Century," two volumes for young people prepared under the editorial direction of Charles Welsh.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just brought out the sixth American edition of "Studies of the Soul," by J. Brierley, who has for some time contributed to the English periodical press under the initials of "J. B.," and is acknowledged as one of the most stimulating and virile essayists of the present day.

BRENTANO'S have just published a new story of modern English society by "Rita," entitled "Souls, a Comedy of Intentions;" also, two attractive books for children, illustrated with colored pictures—"Bilberry Wood," with verses by T. E. M. Dick and illustrations by Elsa Beskon, and "The Child's Arabian Nights," with text and illustrations by W. Heath Robinson.

THE verses in Rudyard Kipling's "Just So Stories" have been set to music by Edward German, which Doubleday, Page & Company will publish shortly in the "Just So Song Book." The stories have taken a place among children's literature, and the new novel will be a welcome companion in the music room or nursery. Mr. Kipling collaborated to some extent with the composer.

THE large plant of the Avil Printing Company, at 39-45 Market Street, Philadelphia, was destroyed by fire on the evening of November 1. The damage includes almost irreparable loss in the destruction of manuscript that was to have been published for several colleges and learned societies. The Avil company also had in hand some important work for the Historical Publishing Company and other publishing houses.

ANDREW GEYER, 318 Broadway, New York, has published a "Bowling Club Score Book," for 1903-4, ruled to show name of clubs playing, where and when the games were played, the score of the eleven innings, the totals and the "strikes," "spares," "breaks," "errors" and averages in detail. The size of the book is 9 x 12 inches, (100 pages,) and it retails at 75 cents the copy, 60 cents each for five copies and 50 cents each for ten copies.

GEORGE D. SMITH, 50 New Street, New York, announces a volume entitled "American Bookbindings in the Library of Henry William Poor," described by Henri Pène du Bois. The volume, which is being printed at the Marion Press, will contain 39 full-page illustrations of the best bookbindings designed and executed by American artists, early and recent, reproduced in gold leaf and colors by Edward Bierstadt. The edition will be limited to 200 copies on Holland hand-made paper, 35 on Imperial Japan paper and 3 copies on vellum.

JOHN LANE has just ready a new illustrated edition of Henry Harland's novel, "The Cardinal's Snuff-Box," with upwards of fifty illustrations by G. C. Wilmhurst, who had the advantage of the author's co-operation. Mr. Lane will also bring out shortly a volume entitled "Under the Hill," which will contain a whimsical, romantic novel by Aubrey Beardsley, and a number of essays, poems, table talk and illustrations by the fanciful draughtsman. Mr. Lane, a personal friend of the artist-author, has collected a few reminiscences in the form of a publisher's note, which preface the volume.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY, Cleveland, O., have in preparation a new series of historical reprints to include Eliot's "Indian Logick Primer," Hutchins's "Topographical Description," Leonard's "Narrative of Adventures," and narratives of Indian captivities, including the story of the captivity of Benjamin Gilbert and his family in 1784, that of Robert Eastburn in 1758, and that of John Leeth. The volumes will be printed from type on hand-made paper and will be limited in number. The "B.B." series of reprints is brought to a close with the issue of Thomas's "Pensylvania and West New Jersey, 1698."

THE IMPERIAL PRESS, of Cleveland, which has just taken into their staff George French, one of the most scholarly of the modern experts on typography, and Andrew Andrews and Louis H. Kinder, recently connected with the Roycroft shop, have in preparation a limited edition of a work on "Printing in Relation to Graphic Art," by George French. The book appeals to every person interested in good printing, either as a producer or as a consumer. The treatment of the subject is sufficiently technical to assure the printer of the practicability of theories advanced, yet so strongly flavored with the artistic spirit as to appeal to the tastes and sympathies of bibliophiles.

HARPER & BROTHERS, after a lengthy period of negotiation, have purchased from the American Publishing Company all of the latter's valuable interest in their Mark Twain's business, so that Mr. Clemens's books, so long published in Hartford, will now be issued from New York. They will bring out some time this month Mark Twain's famous "Jumping Frog," first written in 1867, and recently enlarged and rewritten into book form by the author. Mr. Clemens has prepared a title-page, which reads like this: "The Jumping Frog; in English, then in French, then clawed back into civilized Language by patient and unremunerated Toil." The book has been illustrated by F. Strothmann.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish shortly a work entitled "The Engineer in South Africa," by Stafford Ransome, which shows the needs and possibilities of the South African market, and for that reason will interest American manufacturers seeking foreign markets; "The Motor Pocket Book," by Mervyn O'Gorman and Cozens Hardy, a handbook of practical value to every one owning an automobile or a motor car; also "Liquid Fuel and its Combustion," by W. H. Booth, which deals in a thorough and scientific way with all of the developments up to the present time of fuel oil, giving suggestions of the possibilities of further developments and the dangers of using this method of fuel, also showing how these dangers may be reduced to a minimum.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready a novel by Stephen Gwynn, entitled "John Maxwell's Marriage," the scenes of which are laid in the north of Ireland in the latter part of the eighteenth century; "The Captain's Daughter," a story of girl life in the United States Army, by Miss Gwendolen Overton, author of "The Heritage of Unrest;" also, "The Foe of Compromise, and Other Essays," by William Garrott Brown, author of "The Lower South in American History." They will publish shortly an important and timely volume on "The Opening of the Mississippi," by Frederic Austin Ogg, instructor in history in the University of Indiana. The author has made a thorough study of his subject, bringing together much exceedingly interesting material. The book is further described as "A Struggle for Supremacy in the American Interior."

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish shortly the first essay in original and independent authorship by Miss Helen Keller, entitled "Optimism." The subject was suggested to her by her feeling of protest against the pessimism of the Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám, which she regards as unwholesome. They have in press a volume entitled "Travels in Europe and America," by Charles E. Bolton. This book is the result of extensive travels on both continents, in the days when travel was a little rarer and more difficult than it is to-day, and a popular series of illustrated lectures upon these travels. Mr. Bolton delivered more than two thousand lectures in nearly every State in the Union before his sudden death in 1901; and now the best points in these lectures have been collected and edited by his wife, Mrs. Sarah K. Bolton, herself an author of note.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON will publish shortly a new work by Dr. James Denney, entitled "The Atonement and the Modern Mind," which is supplementary to his work on "The Death of Christ." The author's object is "to commend the Atonement to the human mind, as that mind has been determined by the influence and experience of modern times, and to win the mind for the truth of the Atonement." They also announce a work entitled "Control in Evolution," by George F. Wilkin, whose aim is to reconcile "the facts of religion with the theory of those who believe in evolution, to which Dr. A. H. Strong, of the Rochester Theological Seminary, has prefixed a helpful introductory note; "Sunrise," a new volume of sermons by the Rev. G. H. Morrison, of Glasgow; also, "The Crimson Book," a collection of sermons by Dinsdale T. Young, author of "Neglected People of the Bible."

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE PUBLISHING CORPORATION will publish on November 10 the "Letters of a Son to His Self-Made Father," by Charles Eustace Merriman, another pseudonym for Dwight Tilton, the compound author of "Miss Petticoats." The same publishing concern will publish shortly a volume entitled "State Builders," a volume giving the history of New Hampshire in a series of contributions by Judge Charles R. Corning, Mayor of Concord; Hon. A. S. Batchelor, State Historian; Hon. Nahum J. Bachelder, Governor of the State; Gustavus A. Cheney, J. H. Fassett, Superintendent of Schools of Nashua; Hon. Hosea W. Parker, ex-Congressman; Hon. James O. Lyford, ex-Bank Commissioner; Irving L. Watson, A.M., M.D., Secretary of the State Board of Health; George H. Moses, and other eminent writers. The matter has been edited by George Franklin Willey, the author of "Solitaire."

WILLIAM T. HENDERSON, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York, announces a new and unabridged edition of "Joe Miller's Jest Book." Joe Miller, by the way, never uttered a jest in his life. Though an excellent comic actor, he was a most taciturn and saturnine man. He was in the daily habit of spending his afternoons at the "Black Jack," a well-known public house in Portugal Street, Clare Market, London, which was at that time a resort of the respectable merchants of the neighborhood. Whenever any funny story or anecdote was related, it was sarcastically ascribed to Joe Miller. He died poor, and to benefit his family a Mr. Motley, a well-known dramatist of that day, collected all the stray jokes then current in town. Joe Miller's name was prefixed to the collection, and from that day to this the man who never cracked a joke in his life has been the reputed author of every joke—past, present or future.

THE ALDINE BOOK COMPANY, New York, has just brought out a trade edition, the third by the way, of James Howard Bridge's "Inside History of the Carnegie Steel Company," that created so much discussion on its first appearance early this year. The author explains in a note to this issue that he was never Mr. Carnegie's "private secretary" as that term is usually understood. For several years he assisted Mr. Carnegie in literary work, especially in the preparation of "Triumphant Democracy," and during that time Mr. Bridge asserts he had neither the opportunity nor the inclination to learn the business secrets of the steel companies. He further explains that the book does not contain a single fact that was acquired by him in a confidential capacity, nor that any fact has been included that was wrongfully obtained by any one else. The Booklover Press, 30 East Twenty-first Street, New York, will supply the trade.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have just ready a volume by the late Auguste Sabatier, entitled "Religions of Authority," which will appeal to all who are interested in pure religion. M. Sabatier, up to the time of his death, was Dean of the Protestant Faculty of Theology in the University of Paris. His death prevented him from revising the manuscript and proof of his book, which work was undertaken by his literary executors. This English translation is by Louise Seymour Houghton, who was selected for the work by M. Sabatier himself before his death. They will publish shortly "The Reign of Queen Isyl," a fanciful and amusing book—both a novel and a collection of short stories—by Gelett Burgess and Will Irwin; also, a special edition of "Emmy Lou," which will be brought out in a set with William Allen White's "The Court of Boyville," and Josephine Daskam's stories of quaint children, "The Madness of Phillip."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish to-day a volume on "The Great Poets of Italy," by Professor Oscar Kuhns, of the Wesleyan University, a clear, readable and illuminating discussion of the most famous poets of Italy, including quotations in translation of the most brilliant passages from their works, with twelve illustrations; "The Little Chevalier," by Mrs. M. G. M. Davis, author of "The Queen's Garden," etc., in which is told what befell a certain young viscount who came over from Paris to Louisiana to avenge the death of his father, killed in a duel years before, illustrated by Henry J. Peck; "A Touch of Sun, and Other Stories," four delightful tales of the West, by Mary Hallock Foote; "The Life and Letters of Margaret J. Preston," by Elizabeth Preston Allan, a loving account of one of our famous Southern poets, with interesting glimpses of her father, the Rev. George Junkin, her brother-in-law, "Stonewall" Jackson, and other notable persons; "The New Epoch as Developed by the Manufacture of Power," by George S. Morison, a contribution to the literature of evolution; "The Passing Show," five short plays by Harriet Monroe, author of the Columbian Ode; also, a new edition of Alexander Johnston's "Connecticut" in the American Commonwealths series.

Mrs. ROGER A. PRYOR'S New Chronicles of

The Mother of Washington and Her Times

The work is of real historical value as giving the story of Mary Washington's life fully for the first time. Its pictures of her social life do not give the oft-repeated description of tidewater Virginia, but a view of the region in which she really lived. But most of all the book is singularly attractive in its note of distinction, its compelling interest and a certain intimate charm as if the author were relating among friends the delightful doings of her own circle. Beyond the records ordinarily accessible she has used many unpublished letters, diaries, etc.

Freely illustrated, cloth cr. 8vo. $2.50 net (postage 20 cts.).

Mr. JACK LONDON'S picture of the life and labour of the London slums

The People of the Abyss

By the author of "The Call of the Wild".

An account of the conditions of poverty, degradation and suffering in the East End. It tingles with all the vitality of his fiction and is full of such vivid realism as is only possible from a man who knows London as Mr. Jacob A. Riis knows New York.

Cloth, 8vo, $2.00 net (postage 22 cts.).

THE NOTABLE NEW FICTION

Mrs. EDITH ELMER WOOD'S New Novel

The Spirit of the Service

Pictures the navy in its realities and standards as seen and felt by a navy woman, not merely as the average outsider sees its blue and gold glamour. The story is uncommonly bright and breezy.

Mr. F. M. CRAWFORD'S

New Novel

The Heart of Rome

By the author of Saracinesca.

"A novel of the old ideal, in which things happen, . . . and with this keen fascination of plot is associated Mr. Crawford's charm of style, his epigrammatic significance and his delightful humor."

Cloth, $1.50.

Mr. CHARLES MAJOR'S

New Novel of Early Indiana

A Forest Hearth

By the author of Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall.

Such a sunny love story as secured for one of Mr. MAJOR'S books the record for popularity indicated by representation for fourteen successive months in THE BOOKMAN'S list of the "six best-selling books."

Cloth, $1.50.

Mr. QUILLER-COUCH'S

New Novel

Hetty Wesley

By the author of The Splendid Spur.

"Mr. QUILLER-COUCH has done something new and unhackneyed, and has done it with a tenderness and sureness of touch that he has never surpassed. The pathetic figure of Hetty Wesley will dwell long in the memory of every man who reads."—CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD.

Cloth, $1.50.

Mr. JACOB A. RIIS'S

True Stories of the go straight to the heart. Many of them are Christmas stories, some funny, some pathetic, but all of the incidents related have come directly under his eyes during his quarter-of-a-century "Battle with the Slum."

TO-DAY'S NEW BOOKS

The Little Chevalier

By MRS. M. E. M. DAVIS

A story of love and adventure during the French régime in New Orleans. There is a sense of mystery in the elusive qualities of the Little Chevalier that continually provokes the reader's curiosity. The spirit of the time and the place pervades the book and makes it a very welcome addition to the author's earlier stories. . . . $1.50

A Touch of Sun And Other Stories

By MARY HALLOCK FOOTE

In this book Mrs. Foote has brought together four of her delightful tales of the West, characterized by the same qualities that made her a favorite author long ago. The reader passes from one story to another with the certainty of finding something fresh and entertaining. . . . $1.50

The Passing Show

By HARRIET MONROE.

Five short plays, each built up around a single powerful dramatic situation. The grasp of imagination displayed both in conceiving these and in their presentation in good blank verse is remarkable. They have a vital narrative interest which will engage the sympathies of the reader who reads wholly for pleasure. . . . $1.10 net. Postage extra

The New Epoch as Developed by the Manufacture of Power

By GEORGE S. MORISON.

This book is a most interesting chapter in the slowly forming history of evolution. It is written with much distinction and in a style at once lucid, compact, and weighty. It should interest not only men trained in science, but intelligent readers generally,—an audience similar to that which followed Fiske's essays with so steady an interest.

Great Poets of Italy

It is illustrated by portraits of the more famous authors, and will be of especial interest to students of general literature, poetry, and particularly of Dante.

The Life and Letters of Margaret J. Preston

By ELIZABETH PRESTON ALLAN.

With photogravure portrait.

Mrs. Preston's prominence among our Southern poets makes it quite fitting that an adequate biography of her should be issued. Her life was full of interesting experiences, and the present volume not only narrates these, but also gives attractive glimpses of her father, of Stonewall Jackson (her brother-in-law), and of other notable persons.

HELEN KELLER

Author of "The Story of My Life"

This new work is the first essay of this remarkable young woman in original and independent authorship, and has never before been published. It is entitled

OPTIMISM

A Publisher's Reader says of it

"This work is even more remarkable than her recent autobiography; it is wonderful for a deaf-blind person to write of herself, and it is still more wonderful for her to deal with the world of thought outside of herself. In a sense, though, this essay is autobiographical, for it is an expression of her optimistic philosophy, the creed of life which she has derived from her own experience and from her wide knowledge of books and history. The subject arises as a protest against the pessimism of the Rubaiyat."

Beautifully printed in two colors at the Merrymount Press. Special page designs by Mary Newill, of England. New portrait of Miss Keller as a senior at Radcliffe College.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE of books in print and for sale July 1, 1876, compiled under the direction of F. LEVOLDT, and its supplements, 1876-84, 1884-90, 1890-95, and 1895-1900, compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER, aims to present all the bibliographical features of the books in the American market, arranged in the first part alphabetically by both authors and titles, and in the second part alphabetically by subjects.

The Catalogue and its supplementary volumes form the only approximately complete guide in existence to the American books of the day, so arranged as to make reference easy from whatever direction the inquiry may come, whether from that of the author, or the title, or the subject. It not only furnishes the desired information about any particular book of which the consulter is in search, but shows what others there are by the same author or on the same subject in which he is interested. To the bookseller, therefore, it is valuable both in filling orders and in stimulating business; to the librarian, in supplying gaps and proportioning his collection; and to all who are practically concerned with books, in furnishing information by a convenient method.

The author-and-title volume of the 1876 volume is out of print. A limited number of the subject volume may be had in half leather binding at $15.

The volumes covering the periods 1876-84 and 1884-90 are also out of print.

THE TRUE HISTORY OF THE CIVIL WAR

BY GUY CARLETON LEE, PH.D.

A BRIEF yet comprehensive history, true in the best sense, in that it gives an impartial and accurate account of the causes that led to the Civil War, and a narrative of that struggle and the consequences of Federal victory. It is a thoroughly readable volume, and especially notable for the vividness with which it brings out the great figures of '61 to '65. Professor Lee is a lecturer in Johns Hopkins University, and is besides widely known for his critical work. The book has over twenty illustrations from rare portraits and views.
